

THE LIGHT HOUSE

Wisconsin Point Light House sits at the entrance to Superior Harbor on a pier jutting from the end of a three-mile spit of land, which protects the ore docks and the harbor. The peninsula became city park space except for the tip where the lighthouse and Army Corps buildings were constructed.

CHIPPEWA BURIAL SITE

Near the end of the point is the sign announcing the Chippewa burial site and the stone marker. The marker reads: "Here was the burial ground of the Fond du Lac Band of the Chippewa People dating from the 17th century. It was removed in 1919 to St Francis Cemetery, Superior."

The burial site is covered with items left by visitors through the years, such as beads and feathers, stuffed animals, walking sticks, coins, and tobacco.
